LANGHORNE CHURCH TO CELEBRATE ITS 107TH ANNIVERSARY

Six Special Services Will Be Held Next Week

OUTLINE THE PROGRAM

Music Will Feature at All the Services; Excellent
Speakers

LANGHORNE, Nov. 3.—Six special services will mark the 107th anniversary of Langhorne Methodist Episcopal Church, next week, commencing with the morning service on Sunday, November 5th, and continuing with five night-programs.

The Rev. Howard B. Slider, minister of the church, with co-workers, has been instrumental in outlining excellent numbers for the six services.

The programs are to be as follows:

Sunday, November 5th, 10:30 a. m., opening sermon by the pastor, "The Strength and Beauty of the Church," eight p. m., sermon by the Rev. W. T. Cherry, a former pastor, Anthem by the choir, and cornet solo by Millwood Mather.

Wednesday evening, eight o'clock, eight-reel motion picture of the life of Christ, and violin selections by Mrs. Albert Hainbach. Thursday evening, church membership supper and family party, with addresses by former pastors; special music by the church orchestra; vocal selections by Frank Sutton, baritone, and registration of members in the new church register.

Friday, young people's night, lecture with sound motion pictures, by E. K. Esser; address, "Young People and the Church," Miss Elizabeth D. Eggleston; music by the young folks, and cornet selections by Millwood Mather.

Sunday, November 12th, sermon at 10:30 a. m., by Dr. A. M. Witwer, superintendent of the North District, Philadelphia M. E. Conference, anniversary loyalty offering; eight p. m., message by the pastor; vocal and violin numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gamble.

The anniversary financial goal is $1,000, which it is hoped will be raised by free-will offering. This is the amount needed to carry on the work of the church.

735 Garments Displayed By Croydon Guild; First Exhibit

CROYDON, Nov. 3.—The first display of garments by the Croydon Branch, Needlework Guild of America, took place Wednesday, and was a most commendable exhibit. The meeting was held in Wilkinson Memorial M. E. Church.

Mrs. E. Holmes, Tacony, interested those present with a talk on child work, and referred to the many articles of clothing made by the members to clothe the needy. Miss Gertrude Bright, Bucks County probation officer, spoke of her work, and passed along many stories of children, who range in age from six months to 16 years, with whom she comes in contact. She spoke of the home where she cares for these children, and invited the women to visit there at any time.

Miss Patterson, of Philadelphia, interested in Red Cross work, told of the benefit received from money of those who join the Red Cross. She informed how unfortunate people, victims of disasters, are assisted through the funds, and of the benefit to the needy who do not have the necessities of life. That the disabled soldiers and sailors also are thus helped was brought out.

The three women who spoke work indefatigably for the sake of children, as do also members of the Croydon Guild who sew regularly upon garments for the needy.

A total of 735 garments was displayed by the local guild Wednesday, a commendable number for the first exhibit of the organization.

The articles included: 47 pairs stockings, 36 nightgowns, 26 kimonos, 53 pairs booties, 54 diapers, 52 children's dresses, 98 baby binders and petticoats, 68 baby sacks and undershirts, 98 bloomers, 6 house dresses, 54 baby caps and blankets, 12 boys' suits, 41 blouses and knickers, 13 pajamas and nightshirts, 8 gimpes and shirts, 3 sweaters, etc.

Spaghetti Supper Will Be Served By Post Here

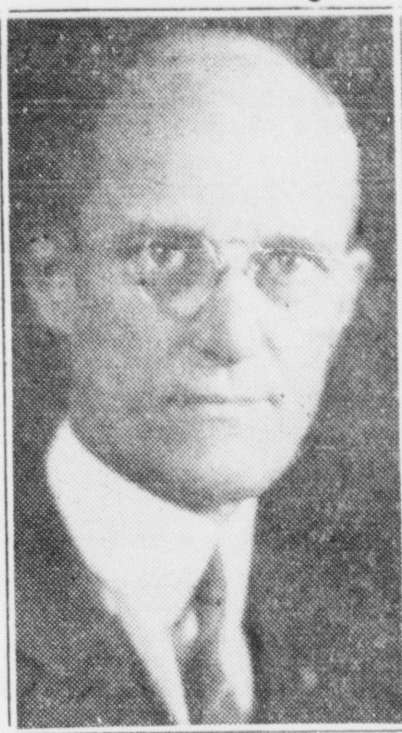

The spaghetti supper to be held in Robert Bracken Post home, Saturday evening, promises to be an appetizing meal, and the patronage of the public is solicited.

Mrs. Marvel Durham is in charge and her aids in the kitchen will be Mrs. A. Poane, Violet Coppritt, and Mrs. Carlo Rago. Committee in charge of the tables consists of Mrs. F. Strauss, chairlady, with aides, Mrs. Vance Betz, Anna Lawler, Mrs. John Wicher, Mrs. F. Della, Mrs. F. Saggola, Mrs. Harry Burbank, Mrs. L. J. Hetherington, Mrs. Stacy Cullen.

Any one desirous of having the supper delivered to their home may phone the post home. Dinners will be delivered by the cadets.

Candidate for Burgess

CLIFFORD L. ANDERSON

Who was renominated by Republicans in September, and is seeking re-election, November 7th.

Clifford L. Anderson was born at East Gloucester, Massachusetts, on September 10, 1872, son of Andrew and Albertina (Anderson) Anderson. Though brought up within sight and sound of the deep waters, he did not yield to the lure of the sea as his father had done, but after a public school education in his native town, turned to business.

At seventeen he was employed by a Boston firm in the leather business, and for ten years remained there, gaining a thorough knowledge of every angle of that line of business.

In 1899 he came to Bristol, and built a plant for the Corona Kid Manufacturing Company, which he controlled until December, 1905. He then organized the Bristol Patent Leather Company, being made its president, which office he still holds.

Mr. Anderson also is president of the Keystone Leather Company, with headquarters at Camden, New Jersey. This company tans leather and produces glazed and colored kid. His other business interests are in banking circles. He is president and a member of the Board of Directors of the Bristol Trust Company.

On April 6, 1897, at Chelsea, Massachusetts, Mr. Anderson married Gertrude Quimby, daughter of Lulman and Francis E. (Eastman) Quimby.

He is a Mason, holding membership in Lodge No. 25, Bristol, in the Consistory, and Lu Lu Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He also maintains fraternal relations with the Bristol Lodge Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, of which he is Past Exalted Ruler. Mr. Anderson is a member of the Union League, the Penn Athletic and Pen and Pencil Clubs of Philadelphia, and an honorary member of the Bristol Rotary Club.

Mr. Anderson's active interest in the public and political affairs in Bristol has been directed always to the best interests of Bristol and its people. He served four years in Borough Council prior to becoming Burgess, and is a candidate for re-election as Burgess on November 7th. His candidacy is offered upon his record of service to the community.

Current Events and Coming
Election Heard Of; Plan
Exchange Program

THREE NEW MEMBERS

YARDLEY, Nov. 3.—The November business meeting of Yardley Civic Club was held yesterday afternoon in the club rooms with a fine attendance.

Mrs. A. S. Cadwallader presided. Following business, the dramatic committee reported that rehearsals had been started on "Tom's Phincoe," a playlet in three acts, which will be presented November 21st, before the Women's Club of Quakertown, as an exchange program. This play is being sponsored by the dramatic committee, Miss Helen W. Leedom, Mrs. Kinsey Dickel, Mrs. Charles F. Cook, Mrs. Francis B. Barnett, and Mrs. William M. Welch, and Mrs. A. S. Cadwallader.

Included in the cast are: Mrs. Francis B. Barnett, Miss Helen W. Leedom, Miss Marion Smith, Mrs. Kinsey Dickel, and Mrs. Richard Jackson Horwell. Three new members were elected to the club: Mrs. Marie Peifer, Mrs. Ernest A. Maginnis, and Mrs. Alexander Neely.

The program included: Reports of county federation at Southampton, by Mrs. Kinsey Dickel and Miss Elizabeth S. Weeks; talk on current events, Mrs. A. J. Cadwallader; talk on election, and how to vote, explaining the various proposed amendments, Mrs. A. A. Danser, of the legislative committee.

HOSPITAL PATIENT

Mrs. Robert Weik, Mill street, is under observation at Harriman Hospital.

An Open Letter

Bristol, Pa., Nov. 2, 1933

Dear Friend and Fellow Citizen of Bristol:

Because an illness, from which I am only now recovering, has prevented me from making the active campaign that I particularly wanted to make this year, following my nomination for re-election as Burgess, I am taking this means of addressing you. I am going to ask, therefore, that you give this letter your earnest consideration.

I am going to write to you just as though we were sitting down together, talking this thing over. There is nothing about an efficiently-managed and smooth-running Borough government to attract more than casual attention. For the very reason that things are going along all right, there is a matter-of-fact sort of acceptance. As a result, there is often a failure to realize just what that efficient and economical government means—how much it is worth. It is that which sometimes leads to the acceptance of changes which often turns out unfortunately.

Until the fact was set forth in the Courier a day or so ago, I doubt if there were many persons in Bristol who realized that hundreds of boroughs and municipalities in this and other States have been compelled to default on their bonds and other financial obligations, and actually are insolvent, despite the fact that they have fixed their tax rates at the maximum permitted by law. This means, of course, that no matter to what extent conditions may change for the better, those towns will be compelled to continue under their maximum tax rates for a very long time.

When you contrast that situation with the fact that Bristol, by efficient and economical administration, has continued to operate on a pay-as-you-go basis, meeting all its obligations, and has done so under a tax rate which was half a mill less for 1933 than for either of the three preceding years, and which is only about half of what that rate could be raised to under the law; and when you consider further that this has been done in spite of a reduced Borough income resulting from tax delinquencies which could not be averted, I think you have something to think about and the soundest possible reasons for continuing the management, in every department of the Borough government, which has produced such unusual and satisfactory results in this protracted period of difficult administration and operation.

I am not speaking of myself, or for myself, except insofar as I, only one of your public servants, have participated in the complete co-operation without which this achievement never could have been had. This result was brought about by the sort of united action which is possible only where there is complete harmony in the carrying out of a common purpose. It was brought about by the perfect functioning of every branch and department of your Borough government—Burgess, Borough Council, Tax Collector, Treasurer, heads of departments and chairmen of committees.

The Republican ticket, as nominated in the Primary and as it will come before you on Tuesday, November 7th, represents this achievement which puts Bristol apart from and above the average municipality in this country today. Every Republican candidate for Borough office who will be on the ballot next Tuesday participated in that accomplishment. Each and every one of them is necessary to its continuance.

If you are for this sort of clean, effective, efficient and economical Borough government, I ask you to insure its continuation by voting for every Republican candidate on Tuesday, November 7th.

And now I want to thank you for having read this letter through. It has been rather long, but, as I said in the beginning, I wanted to write to you just as though we were sitting down together, talking this thing over. I know you will give this your considered judgment, and I have no doubt about the soundness of that judgment.

Trusting that I may continue to serve you as I always have tried to do, and that you will elect to this same common effort every one of those Republican candidates who are up for re-election, I am,

Sincerely yours,

CLIFFORD L. ANDERSON.

HELD UNDER BAIL FOR FURTHER HEARING HERE

Angelo De Risi to Get Further
Hearing on November
28th

ADMITS STEALING COAL

Held under $300 bail for a further hearing November 28th, charged with stealing coal from the yards of C. S. Wetherill, Est., a Bristol man last night admitted taking the fuel. The man under arrest is Angelo De Risi, 629 Pond street.

Chief Jones was the first witness to testify at a hearing before Justice of Peace, James Guy. Chief Jones stated that Officer Pollard had arrested De Risi along the Highway and that he had with him two bags of coal. The arrest was made between two and three o'clock Thursday morning. Later five other bags of coal were found and all of the fuel was identified by Parke Wetherill, a member of the Wetherill firm.

The coal was weighed and the amount of the fuel taken totaled about 400 pounds.

It has been reported by Mr. Wetherill that nearly a ton of coal has been stolen every night from the Wetherill yard.

The next witness to take the stand

Officers of the Catholic Daughters Are Installed

Catholic Daughters of America held their regular meeting and installation of officers, in St. Mark's school hall, last evening. A business meeting was followed by installation of officers. The new officers were installed by district deputy, Mrs. Anna Brennan, Philadelphia, and their term in office is for one year.

The new officers are: Grand regent, Miss Marie Gaffney; vice-regent, Mrs. Andrew Moore; prophetess, Miss Jane Lynn; financial secretary, Miss Julia McFadden; historian, Miss Gertrude Roche; treasurer, Miss Margaret McIlvaine; monitor, Mrs. Joseph Foster; sentinel, Miss Katharine Dugan; lecturer, Mrs. Neil McIlvaine; organist, Mrs. Maurice Roche.

The following trustees elected for three years are: Mrs. Katharine Lynn and Mrs. Edward McIlvaine. Addressesses were given by Miss Gaffney, Miss Jane Lynn, past grand regent, Mrs. Brennan, and the Rev. E. Paul Baird, chaplain.

A reception to the new officers was held and a chicken supper enjoyed. The hall was decorated in the court colors, purple and gold. Bouquets of orchid and yellow chrysanthemums were on the tables, and amber color china was used. Presentation of gifts were made to Miss Lynn, Miss Gaffney, and to Mrs. Brennan, who is retiring after ten years of active service.

There were about 75 present. The committee in charge included members from the fourth ward, with Mrs. Margaret Murphy as chairlady.

JOINT AFFAIR STAGED BY LANGHORNE WOMEN

Sorosis Meeting and Needlework Guild Garment
Display Yesterday

REPORTS ARE GIVEN

LANGHORNE, Nov. 3.—A joint affair occurred at the library building, here, yesterday afternoon, when in connection with the regular meeting of Langhorne Sorosis, the Langhorne Branch of Needlework Guild conducted its annual exhibition of garments. Both the Junior and Senior Branches of the Guild displayed articles of wearing apparel, the number being very large. Mrs. Sarah Allen is chairman of the seniors, and also chairman of the civic committee of Sorosis.

Mrs. Lynn J. Harrington, president of Sorosis, presided at the women's club meeting. She announced the Parent-Teacher and Sorosis annual reception to the public school teachers, on the evening of November 17th. An invitation was also extended from the Makefield Mothers' Club to attend a meeting at the Makefield community house, Monday afternoon. The speaker will be Anna Griscorn Elkington, who will talk upon international relations.

Mrs. Paul Bennett, chairman of the American Home Section of the club, stated the meetings of this section will commence next Friday. Mrs. Harry Williams, Jr., chairman of Sorosis garden section, informed the gathering that Mrs. Henry C. Parry had secured first place for her arrangement of berried shrubs at the state federation meeting at Pittsburgh. A reproduction of this bouquet was shown yesterday.

The holly tree given Sorosis by Mrs. Ross, state chairman of conservation, has been planted at the bird haven, here, which is the first bird haven to be sponsored by any women's club in the nation. The 150 tulip bulbs, gift to the club of Mrs. J. Nelson Allison, have also been placed at the bird haven.

Miss Dorothy Rothermel, chairman of Junior Sorosis, reported on coming events of the Juniors, including: Thanksgiving night supper dance at Memorial house for members and friends; food exchange later, Christmas dance and party.

Mrs. George Cliff pleaded for more members for Bucks County S. P. C. A., telling of the work of the society and of the animal refuge conducted.

It was urged by Mrs. Arthur Hagar, chairman of art committee, that all singers in the club support the choral group of which Mrs. Edgar Frutchey is chairman, and Mrs. F. Marshall accompanist. This group of singers meets weekly at the Hagar home.

The book club of which Mrs. John Hart is head, will meet November 8, at two p. m., at the library; while the reading group will assemble at the home of Mrs. W. H. Stark at two p. m., November 27th.

Yesterday Mrs. Charles Erdman was received as a number of the club, and Mrs. Robert Sidle resigned. The afternoon program was given by delegates to the state and county federation meetings, these being reported upon by: state convention—Misses Dorothy Rothermel and Catherine Allison, and Mrs. Arthur Hagar, junior activities; Mrs. Paul Bennett, senior. County convention, Mrs. J. Nelson Allison.

The choral group sang several numbers.

WAR VETERAN DIES

Latrobe, Nov. 3.—Harry Wilt, 53-year-old Spanish-American War veteran, and father of seven children, died today in the Latrobe Hospital without revealing the motive that caused him to fatally shoot Mrs. Catherine Graff, 38, twice-widowed mother of two children, before committing suicide.

GIRL, 4, FATALLY SHOT

Quakertown, Nov. 3.—A four-year-old girl today was added to the list of hunting season fatalities. She was Livia Steffel, of near Applesbachsville, fatally shot through the chest by William Anders, a neighbor boy who was examining his father's gun when the weapon was accidentally discharged. The elder Anders had just returned from a hunting trip.

FLAMES DESTROY PIER

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—Thousands of dollars worth of merchandise was destroyed today when fire swept the Tidewater Terminal pier on the Delaware River front. After battling the flames for an hour, firemen gained control and kept the blaze from spreading to the "Collingworth," a South American Line freighter docked at the pier.

Enthusiastic Audience Has Pleasure at Big Show

"Heads Up," which opened last night for a two night engagement at the high school auditorium, played to a large, enthusiastic crowd.

The Mothers' Association was more than pleased at the reception accorded the production, and at the general pleasure achieved by their first audience. Special mention must be given to the outstanding leads, Delightful, graceful Mrs. Harry Hanford portrayed the ideal college type, while Ronald Swain was the exemplification of America's manly youth. Russell Burton brought perfection to the role of a Southern Colonel, and Percy Ford was deliciously amusing as the bouncing, shouting "Hail Fellow well met" billionaire, to whom Mrs. George Croner, as the "squish" terrible, Thomas Barrett, as a "Frat" president, caused fluttering hearts in the audience, and the boys of the Fraternity were splendid. Clarence Powell was as finished, smooth and intriguing as his namesake in the movies, William Powell.

Andrew MacArthur and his "Prots," Francis Wear, I. Louis Rubin, Harry Wessaw and Roy Fry, were the laugh hits of the evening; while George Croner, William Griffiths, Charles Rathke, as escaped lunatics, with their guard, John Black, ran a close second on laughs.

Mrs. David Norman and her civic leaguers with their unique costumes and more unique "dance," were a great hit with the women.

Howard Smoyer and his crooks were unusually good; Frank Phillips was an "Al Jolson" bell boy, and Robert Downing an effective sheriff.

Seats are on sale for tonight, the last night, at Levinson's drug store.

Junior League Teachers Arrange A Fine Party

The Junior League of Bristol M. E. Church held a Halloween social last evening in the church basement. About 100 children were present in masquerade costumes.

In the grand march Jennie Lamb was selected for comic dress; Margaret and Helen Wood, cutest; Mildred Miller, fancy dress; Allen and Arthur White, most original.

In the apple bobbing game a prize was awarded to Pearl Smith and Jean Angus. Refreshments were served. The teachers in charge were: Misses Helen Appleton, Carrie Rapp, Marion Walters, Marion Rodgers, Mildred Schull, Mrs. Jack Lynn, and Floyd Hunt.

Variety of Costumes Seen At Jolly Hallowe'en Affair

Mrs. Lewis Worthington, Bath street, entertained at her home last evening at a Jolly Hallowe'en party.

The guests, in masquerade attire, bobbed for apples and played other games in keeping with the season.

A Hallowe'en repast was served to: Mrs. George Bailey, Mrs. John Mulholland, Mrs. David H. Mulholland, Mrs. Richard Myers, Mrs. William Maxwell, Mrs. John Hunter, Mrs. Jesse Betz, the Misses Emma Kessler, Elizabeth Bailey, Marion Mulholland, May Smoyer, Carrie and Dorothy Worthington; Messrs. Lewis Worthington, Jr., Robert Worthington.

THREE TO BE NAMED AS MEMBERS OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

Republican Candidates Are At Present Members of The Board

EFFICIENT DIRECTORS

Duties Call for Experience and Knowledge of Business Methods

On election day, Tuesday, November 7, three school directors will be elected, two of whom shall serve for six years, and one for four years. Mrs. Asa Fabian, George Molden and Stanford K. Runyan, are the present incumbents and all are candidates for re-election on the Republican ticket.

The office of school director is as more important one than most people realize. The local directors have in their hands the destiny of over 2,000 children. It is their duty to furnish competent teachers and to provide adequate accommodations for this army of young people. A school director's duty is not simply to attend the monthly meetings of the Board, but he has certain duties that take up much of his time during the interim, between the regular meetings.

The cost of operating the public schools, is a matter which calls for the exercise of exceptional judgment and familiarity with financial questions. The Bristol school board may be described as a well balanced board. Messrs. Metzger, Runyan and Green, have a knowledge of finance that is helpful in making up the annual budget and in keeping the costs down to a minimum, without destroying the efficiency of the schools, while Mrs. D. O. Taylor and Mrs. Asa Fabian, both of whom have had the training for teaching, have a knowledge of the educational operation of the schools, that is not only helpful but indispensable as well. Mrs. Gillies, the third lady on the Board, is also a member of the school committee and spends much time each month visiting the schools.

The question of the successful operation of our public school system will always be a controversial one. So many parents are concerned in the education of this vast army of children; annoying difficulties are constantly arising that oftentimes cannot be settled to the satisfaction of the parents; unfortunately all children do not possess the same amount of intelligence and in consequence, many times the schools are blamed for a condition, for which they are in no way responsible. Any dissatisfaction with the schools naturally carries with it censure and criticism of the board.

Members of the school board receive no salaries for the duties which they perform, with the exception of the secretary and treasurer, who when elected from the board members, may receive the regular salaries. And yet these members of the board, quietly perform their duties from day to day, without complaint, being actuated only with a desire to look after the interests of both the students, and the voters who have entrusted them to act as their representatives upon the school board.

Stanford K. Runyan who was recently elected to succeed Dr. William C. LeCompte, and who is a candidate for election in November, furnishes an example of what the duties of a school director are like. He is chairman of the Property Committee, and as such must look after the upkeep and repairs of seven school buildings. He must be ready at any time to visit the school buildings, to supervise the repairs and to lay out the new work. Emergency calls are frequent which demand his immediate presence. He has with him as a member of the committee, George Molden, who is also a candidate for re-election. Both of these men are giving efficient service, are earnest and sincere in their efforts to maintain and improve the physical condition of the schools, and both are worthy of re-election, and should receive the united support of the Republican voters.

The introduction of women into the board of directors has been a profitable experiment in Bristol. It has been profitable because two of these women directors, have had the training of teachers, and their knowledge of the inside working of the schools has been of inestimable value to the board. These women visit the schools, observe the teachers in their class room work, and report back to the board the results of their observations. From their reports the board is able to judge of the efficiency and qualifications of the teachers. Mrs. Asa Fabian is one of these women directors, whose term expires this year and who is asking for re-election on the Republican ticket.

When men and women in public life have shown unusual qualifications, and have been earnest and faithful in the performance of their duties, it would seem only fair and just, that they should be continued in the offices which they hold, and to retain which they are asking for re-election. The Republican voters of Bristol would show their appreciation of loyal and qualified service, by re-electing these three worthy candidates to the position which they now hold.

COSTLY STRIKES

Strikes were inevitable from the moment employment began to increase and wages started upward but that does not make them less regrettable from the point of wages and production lost.

It is possible to measure the loss in wages and curtailed production, but the final economic loss is incalculable. Everybody loses when a worker loses a day's pay.

During July, August and September there were 1,000 strikes, involving a wage loss of $22,000,000 and a loss in production hours of 6,500,000. A tremendous loss to a nation struggling to pull itself out of a major economic disaster, and yet only a fraction of the total cost of those walk-outs.

Many of these labor troubles were hasty and avoidable, gaining nothing and losing much. Others may result ultimately in a net gain not only for the worker but for the nation. Where an employer grossly violates the NRA code his employees are not helping recovery by meek submission, nor is the employer justified in surrendering to unreasonable demands of labor inspired entirely by the hope of exacting something to which the worker is not entitled.

When will the civilized world learn how to settle labor disputes and international controversies without the wastage of strikes and war? The one is comparable with the other.

PROTECTING THE CONSUMER

It is encouraging to note that the interests of the consumer are to receive the early attention of the government.

Only in a general way has the consumer figured in the setting up of codes and other parts of the complicated machinery for the regulation of business. More specific recognition is to be given him.

The President has announced that action along this line soon will be taken. Community boards are to be created. These will receive and consider complaints of persons who believe they are being overcharged. Investigation will be made where this course seems to be called for, and machinery for remedial action will be provided.

Upon the consumer rests, to a large extent, success of the administration's effort to bring about economic recovery. It is only fair that every effort be made to protect his interests. The consumer ordinarily is a patient and long-suffering animal, but rebellion is not unknown to him. For him to be permitted to become the victim of conscienceless gougers, soon would be reflected in decreased purchasing that might undermine the entire recovery program. This is recognized by the national administration.

CHAPTER FIFTY-ONE

Then in the suitcase Tom had also put a box of candy; Mom knew it was candy by the box and that made her feel all thrilled, too, because she had always wanted boxes of candy when she was young, like Charlie Whitney had taken his girls when he went out on Sunday and Wednesday nights but Pop was never much of a man for things like that. And here when Mom opened the box it wasn't ordinary candy but candy that looked like fruit; you could touch it and it even felt like fruit. Uncle Louie had something to say about that, too; he said what was the sense in it when Tommy could have got real fruit for half the price and it was only another waste of money with times so bad, and Pop said if he had wasted as much time in his life doing nothing, like some people, he wouldn't talk about anybody else wasting their own money which they had worked hard for and it was nobody's business how they spent it. It took Pop to settle him.

But Mom noticed Uncle Louie could eat it, just the same; for when she went to get it to take up to the store the next day to show the neighbor ladies, half of it was gone; and of course he had had to take the bunch of grapes in the middle Mom liked best. It was the biggest piece and that's why he had taken it first. She knew him.

Then Cousin Emmy came over so quick that Mom knew she couldn't have half-fed her man and Mom wondered how he stood for it, even if he was as dumb as they said he was. When Uncle Louie saw her coming he turned up his nose and stuck out his lower lip; and before Cousin Emmy could say a thing Uncle Louie said, real loud, how good the meal was; and Cousin Emmy said she supposed he meant her cooking was no good and that anytime he got tired of it he could leave and it wouldn't make her mad. Then Uncle Louie looked at Mom like he was asking her if he had to be insulted in her house and Mom turned it off by showing Cousin Emmy Steve's ring. And here she hardly looked at it twice before she turned around and made for Tommy like she was going to kiss him but Tommy made out he didn't know what she meant as he had never liked people to kiss him, even when he was a child, particularly Cousin Emmy who was one of the kissing kind. Mom would never forget the time she had tried to kiss Pop—the first and last time.

Then she got to asking questions about Hollywood and how was her old friend Jack Devere and how about Valeska Mourat and Tommy said Valeska Mourat was in love with herself; and Uncle Louie said, sure, that proved what he had said all the time, that she was no good and a hunk; and he looked at Pop and Pop couldn't say anything with Tommy going against him that way although Tommy didn't know he was favoring Uncle Louie, that was one sure thing.

Then Cousin Emmy kept pestering him so much and following him around asking questions about this and that, that finally Tom excused himself and said he was going downtown. And when he went out he gave Mom a look as if to say:

Tommy got all dressed up in his tuxedo . . . Pop, out of the corner of his eye, seemed worried about the thin soles on those shiny shoes.

Am I going to have to put up with her all the time? But he had been real patient with her and Uncle Louie, too, and Mom was even surprised at how well he had stood it. Tommy seemed to have his mind on something else all day, in fact, Mom guessed it was the artist because one thing was sure, he wasn't thinking about Valeska Mourat and it wasn't Dorothy although there was nothing Mom could say against Dorothy since the time Tommy was hurt; she always smiled real sweet to Mom on the street when she saw her and looked very pretty and more like her mother every day.

Cousin Emmy came in before supper again and said it was just like the Prince of Wales or somebody had come to town the way everybody was crowding around Tommy downtown and asking him about this and that and wanting to shake hands with him. Mom was very proud and so was Pop although he didn't have time to say much all day as he was wrapped up in his new pipe and wondering how long it would take to color up to a nice brown. He acted just like it was a new toy and Christmas sure was a success to Pop. He really hadn't had much Christmas when he was a kid; his people were good and meant well and all that but they just didn't have much money. It was the same with Mom's—and now Christmas was great with something for everybody and she owed it to her children; and Mom thought there was nothing she could hope for nicer than this Christmas.

Tommy came back late for supper and hurried up and got all dressed up in his tuxedo with the standup collar and all and he was sure a sight to look at, so brave and handsome. Pop didn't say anything but he saw him looking from the corner of his eye, taking Tommy in from head to foot, particularly the thin soles on his low-cuts as Pop was always a great one for the boys keeping good soles on their shoes; but he didn't say anything; and Mom was glad Uncle Louie wasn't there to spoil it. Mom had often wondered how Tommy looked all dressed up in his best to go see the millionaire girls. A big car came from Smithville to get him and he said he was going to a dance over there and for Mom not to wait up on him. He still seemed to have something on his mind and Mom thought it must be about a job. He had been away in the east for a month but hadn't said anything when he came back and Mom didn't like to ask him.

Mom was not one of those mothers who always thought her children were babies and should be treated that way—like old Grandmother Whitney, for one. Mom believed they all had to live their own lives and should not be bothered too much. She knew Pete and Steve would be wanting to get married anytime; and Mom wasn't going to give them any sermon about hard times and all that—when Mom and Pop had been married, times weren't so good either; all Pop had was a job and they even bought their furniture on tick. Young ones were that way and Mom was glad they were; sometimes she thought trouble was all in the head of old people because the young ones never saw it; maybe they stumped their toe and cried for a minute as if their little hearts would break—but let a dog come along wagging his tail and they'd soon forget. That was the big thing Mom hated about getting old—and if Tommy hadn't done another thing that Christmas but bring Pop that meerschaum pipe it would have been enough.

was Mr. Wetherill who stated he had identified the coal as that coming from his yard.

At this point in the hearing Chief Jones requested Justice Guy to hold DeRisi for a further hearing, so that the police could make a further investigation into the case. "This man is not the only one stealing coal from the Wetherill yard and we would like to have more time in which to complete our investigation," stated the Chief.

This suggestion was received favorably by Justice Guy and he held De-

Risi in bail until the November date.

The police are now engaged in checking-up some evidence which they have obtained and other arrests are likely to be made.

SPORT

TOUGH TILT SCHEDULED FOR BRISTOL HIGH XI.

By Jack Orr

B. H. S. Publicity Representative. After losing a hard-fought battle to the strong Alumni eleven, Coach "Bill" Dougherty's proteges began practice for another tough tilt with the Fallsington Club at Morrisville tomorrow.

Fallsington is having a tough season, losing some close games. In the first game of the season they lost a thrilling game at Morrisville, when the Bulldogs nosed out a 7-6 victory. Following this Upper Moreland took them over 18-0, and last week they were again beaten in a close game, 12-6, by Bensalem. Bristol High has played only one of these teams, Upper Moreland, winning 6-0. But comparative scores mean little as Fallsington's whole football season depends on this game.

Last year the Fallsington club won 6-0 in an officials' error, and Bristol is out to avenge that defeat. It is hoped that a great crowd will be at Island Field backing the team to the utmost.

ATTENTION LEGIONNAIRES

The parade and meeting in Philadelphia, announced in yesterday's Courier as occurring last evening, are to be held tonight. Local Legionnaires are urged by Commander Robert Clark, of Bracken Post, to be at 20th and the Parkway, Philadelphia, tonight in time for the parade, after which they will attend the session at First Regiment Armory.

W. I. C. SOCIAL

Young men of the W. I. C. club of Second Baptist Church, will conduct a social at the home of Mrs. Susie Allen, 551 Otter street, tomorrow evening. All are welcome.

HAVE ANOTHER TEACHER

Members of the board of directors, Bristol Township public schools, met at the Maple Shade building, last evening. Business of a routine nature was discussed. During the past month one new teacher has been employed, namely, Miss Margaret Rouzer, who instructs first grade pupils at Maple Shade building. Due to over-crowded conditions, another room has been fitted up at Maple Shade structure to care for these students.

TO GO TO PHILA.

Members of Fidelity Council, No. 21, P. P. A., will play the second pinochle game of a series of three with Diligent Council, No. 4, in P. O. S. of A. Hall, Philadelphia, this evening. Meet at P. P. A. Hall, Radcliffe street, at seven o'clock sharp.

DIRECTORS MEET

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 3.—All directors gathered for the meeting of the school board of Bensalem Township public school in the high school building, here, last evening. Charles E. Wenner presided. Reports from committees were heard. It was reported repairs are being made to the auditorium floor. Orders for salaries of teachers were drawn last night. Samuel K. Faust, superintendent of the township schools, gave a detailed report on operation of the schools this year. Many of the directors will be in attendance at the meeting of school directors of the county at Doylestown this afternoon and evening.

FIREMEN'S BENEFIT

Those desiring to attend the benefit card party for Newportville Fire Compary tomorrow evening in the Newportville fire station will be provided with free transportation from Bath and Otter streets, here, at 8.30 o'clock. For winners in "500," pinochle, and bridge, there will be 70 prizes, included in which are: electric clock, lamp, waffle iron, motor oil and alcohol, etc. E. H. Middleton is the sponsor.

AUXILIARY INSTALLATION

Mrs. Alvah Rittenhouse, Eastern director, will be at the meeting of American Legion Auxiliary, Robert W. Bracken Post, this evening, to install officers. The session at eight o'clock, will be followed by a social period and refreshments. All members are asked to attend if possible.

Classified Ads deliver the goods.

FOR CARD DEVOTEES

The Knights of Columbus will hold a card party this evening in their home, Radcliffe street, at 8.30. Warren Armstrong, Jr., is chairman. "500" and pinochle will be played and a fine collection of prizes will be awarded. Some of the prizes are: card table, pottery lamp, vases, glassware, silverware, wearing apparel.

Democratic Candidates
Address Meeting Here

A Democratic mass meeting was held in Trades Hall, Wood street, last night, and those assembled were addressed by both local and county Democratic candidates.

George Younger, Bristol, candidate for council, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced the various speakers.

Among those to address the meeting were Oliver W. Frey, candidate for Congress; Webster S. Achey, candidate for district attorney; Mrs. James M. Shellenburger, Doylestown; Thomas Baines, candidate for council, Bristol; Damon Johnson, candidate for Burgess; Lewis Treude, candidate for tax collector; Van Dorsen Tyler, James Zeppilli and John Mulligan, school directors; Domico Masciotka, council, and Frank Gilardi, council.
